Ar the meeting of the Hongkoug and Shanghai Bank held on Saturday last the question of the mode of electing the Chairman of the Bank was raised by Mr. Wicking. Under the present system the directors take the position in rotation. This no doubt saves some heart-burning and possible unpleasantness, but on the other hand it carries with it the risk of placing unsuitable men in what has bought up almost as much for the same port ought to be looked upon as the most important marcantile position in the Colony, The Chairman of the Hougkong and Shanghai Bank ought always to be a man who by virtue of his own connections stands in the front rank of commerce; to put the paid partner of some third-rate house into the position is calculated to bring it into contempt. We are speaking of course only with reference to possible eventualities and not with the intention of taking exception to or the past. It seems to us, however, that Egypt, and are now prepared to execute orders for the the directors might advantageously take Mr. Wicking's suggestion into consideration. According to the deed of sattlement the appointment of the Chairman rests with the directors. If they were to make the appointment by election instead of letting it pass by rotation the interests of the Bank would be served, and some gentlemen who, however useful they may be at the Board, lack the qualifications necessary to enable them to successfully conduct a pub. compulsory for all persons dying of infectious me as a guide.
